

The Five W's of a Tag Sale

What:

Dealing with an entire household of accumulated possessions can be overwhelming. I will come in and look over your items and let you know what will be the best option available to liquidate your items.

Where:

Conducting a sale onsite is the most cost effective for the seller.

A few factors will be taken into consideration:

- 1) Location
- 2) Amount of items
- 3) Availability before property closes
- 4) Condition of home.

Who:

Anybody who is moving and has tons of stuff they don't need.

When:

Call as soon as you are thinking of moving. I can guide you through the process. The market is constantly changing and I know what items people are searching for. (Sometimes people throw away things of value. For example: old step stools, mid century lamps, wooden ladders.) I have customers looking for all types of items. It is easier to pick a date and make sure we can complete the sale before a real estate closing date.

Why:

I personalize every tag or estate sale I conduct. I set the rooms up according to the items and the home's décor. I specialize in making the home and items look their very best. The ultimate goal is to promote & present the best sale possible, clearing your home, and maximizing your returns.
